THE ALUMNUS

STATE COLLEGE OF IOWA, CEDAR FALLS, IOWA

Former State Board of Regents President Harry H. Hagemann receives guests at a reception following ceremonies dedicating newly constructed Hagemann Hall on the northwest corner of the Regents Complex.

Hagemann Hall Dedicated

Hagemann Hall, newly constructed women's residence in the SCI Regents Complex, was dedicated in honor of former Board of Regents President Harry H. Hagemann of Waverly Sunday, Oct. 10.

Dr. Edward Voldseth, dean of students, presided at the dedication. Following a talk on SCI's women's residence hall programs by Dr. Mavis L. Holmes, associate dean of students, President J. W. Maucker introduced the honored guest who spoke of his experiences while serving on the Board of Regents.

After a student presentation by Miss Darla Peterson, president of Hagemann Hall, a reception and an open house were held in the main lounge of the new residence hall.

Open house was also held in the Regents Food Service and Lounge, the New Administration Building and the Library.

Hagemann was appointed to the State Board of Regents in 1951. He became president of the Board in 1957 and served until the end of his term in 1963. At present, he is senior member of the law firm, Hagemann and Hagemann, of Waverly.

Mr. and Mrs. Hagemann, followed by Darla Peterson, Hagemann Hall president, proceed to the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

A student at SCI in 1920-21, Hagemann married Shirley Kilpatrick, an SCI graduate, in 1933. The Hagemanns have one daughter, Judith, who is presently head of the Garden Gate Montessori School in Milwaukee.

Hagemann Hall contains 204 student rooms which house 202 freshmen and 206 upperclassmen. The facilities also include: a recreation room, library, music room, committee rooms, laundry facilities, and spacious floor lounges. These floor lounges include kitchen units and comfortable furniture for either recreation or study.

The main lounge serves as a reception area and is also utilized for hall social activities. The drawers, closet, and lavatory have been built into one wall in the student rooms. Trundle beds conserve needed floor space, and the built-in shelves are conveniently located.

Hagemann Hall is the third residence hall, and the first one for women, to be completed in the Regents Complex. Each hall is named for a man who served as president of the Iowa State Board of Regents.

Mrs. Hagemann supervises at the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

Hageman Hall contains 204 student rooms which will house 408 women students this year. The facilities also include a recreation room, library, music room, committee rooms, laundry facilities and spacious floor lounges.

More Bells Would Add Versatility to Campanile

By Milo Lawton

Sunday, September 19, 1926, must have been an exciting day on the campus at Iowa State Teachers College, for it was on this day that the opening recital was played on the Campanile chimes. It was on this day that the Campanile was dedicated to the "Founders and Builders" of Iowa State Teachers College as a part of the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the college. The 15-bell chime housed in the 100-foot-high Campanile at a cost of $50,000 was considered one of the foremost monuments in Iowa. It was and is a magnificent memorial worthy of the time, money and effort it took to make it a reality.

In the 40 years since, the Campanile has stood as a constant reminder of abiding alumni interest and loyalty to SCI. It has become a part of many of the college traditions. It is a favorite subject for photographers on campus. It is pictured on most correspondence from the Alumni Office. Campanile concerts are traditional at Homecoming and as a part of the tree-lighting ceremony to launch the Christmas season on campus.

However, the daily concerts, just before classes begin in the morning and in the afternoon, undoubtedly make the most lasting impression on the students, and it is here that the limitations of the present instruments are most noticeable.

Dr. Myron Russell, head of the music department at SCI, recently wrote to the directors of the Alumni Association as follows: "For many years I have thought that an addition to our bell set would be one of the most worthwhile projects that the alumni could undertake. It is true that we do not need this to further our classroom educational program; however, for the over-all atmosphere of the campus and what it stands for, this addition would be most desirable. The present set of bells permits the player to play in only certain keys, and even some melodies that are written in what appears to be a playable key include a transient modulation which our bells often do not cover. Also the number of our bells and the mechanical principle used in playing, permits the playing of only two-part music when most of the time full four-part harmony would be highly desirable."

Since receiving Dr. Russell's letter, members of your Alumni Board along with several college officials have had an opportunity to hear a demonstration concert played on a portable carillon brought to the campus by the I. T. Verdin Company. There was unanimous agreement among this group that the four-octave range added greatly to the musical capabilities of the instrument and that it would be a desirable addition if: (1) the present bells could be used as a part of the new instrument; (2) the present tower would accommodate the additional bells; (3) the cost seemed to be within our capabilities.

We know at this time that the original bells are in excellent condition and can be used in the proposed carillon. Because they are the largest of the bells required in the proposed 47-bell carillon, the additional weight can be accommodated in the present tower. It is interesting to note that the replacement price of the present 15 bells alone would approximate $40,000. It appears that the cost of 32 bells to complete a four-octave instrument will approximate $25,000.

Your Alumni Board has a good deal of enthusiasm for this project and is recommending to the SCI Foundation that they proceed with the addition if financing seems at all feasible. Since this project will be of special interest to all alumni, "The Alumnus" will endeavor to keep you posted on its progress.

CRO Needs Old Pictures

Before you toss that old photo in the incinerator, remember your SCI College Relations Office. The CRO needs old photographs of former SCI students, faculty and campus scenes. Photos of students and faculty participating in college-related activities are especially valuable. They may be used to add spark to future publications. Don't forget to identify the individuals and scenes and, if possible, briefly describe it.

CONVOCATION

'Expectations and Responsibilities'

By J. W. Maucker

"Students should expect the faculty to show them respect as individuals and to stimulate them on the basis of sound scholarship. Respect and stimulation are the minimum essentials.

"The faculty should expect the student to make an honest effort at self-development. I am assuming self-development to be the primary goal of college experience—development of minds, bodies and moral and spiritual qualities.

"I urge the cooperation of students and faculty in making the SCI campus a place where competing ideas are aired; where there is continuous exposure to the arts; where a special effort is made to learn about urban problems, depressed minorities, and international affairs; where responsible creative efforts by students are encouraged; and where all strive for an increased degree of self-insight."

campus, boasting a full-time staff of only three positions (one of which is vacant at the moment) with the director of library services serving also as its part-time head, the department nevertheless offers both an undergraduate major of 24 hours and a minor of 16 hours which qualify graduates as full-time school librarians or combination teacher-librarians. Since its beginning in the late '40's when two members of the library staff were assigned to teaching duties only and occupied desks in the first floor hallway outside the classroom in the old library building, the department has experienced a slow but steady growth, becoming a separate academic department in 1953. At the present time there are slightly more than 60 declared majors in residence, and it is expected that in the spring of 1966 we will be graduating approximately 20 majors, which will be our all-time high.

Library science is normally a graduate program, usually in a university as a sep-

The Emphasis Is on Quality

Library Science Department Grows

By Donald O. Rod

(This is the eleventh in a series of articles on the departments of instruction at SCI.)

"Give me 15 minutes in your school library, and I will tell you what kind of a school you have."

This rather bold statement has been attributed at various times to several different school administrators of national stature, and perhaps accurately describes the opinion of any number of persons. Certainly the department of library science at State College of Iowa subscribes to the implication that school libraries are pretty important.

Smallest of the academic departments on arate professional school. In the field of school librarianship, however, the discipline has been found primarily in the undergraduate curriculum with several hundred institutions in the country having offerings ranging from one or two courses to full majors programs. Needless to say, there are many degrees of quality represented. From the very beginning the State College of Iowa has been more concerned with quality than with size, and it has been gratifying to have evidence from time to time that this goal is being achieved to a significant degree. During the past dozen years, members of the department have served on national committees and boards far out of proportion to their numbers in the total of personnel engaged in the field of school librarianship. Last year a staff member edited a major bibliography published by the American Library Association. About five years ago the dean of one of the graduate library schools of the country stated at a public meeting that there was only one undergraduate library science program in the country which his school accepted as of unquestioned quality, and that was the program at State College of Iowa. In 1963 the department was given the Grolier-Americana Scholarship Award of $1,000 which is awarded annually to one undergraduate and one graduate library program in the country by the Grolier Foundation and the American Association of School Librarians. Perhaps it is not amiss for the college and the department to take some pride in these recognitions.

The curriculum of the department consists of courses in book selection, the school library, library materials for children, high school library materials, reference, cataloging and classification, teaching the use of libraries, and history of books. Additional courses in other departments which may be used when appropriate are audio-visual education, story telling, and problems of reading in the secondary school. From this listing it is clear that the program in library science is rather limited, quite specific, and largely prescribed. The basic philosophy of librarianship in general, as with many of the other professions, is that a broad general education is the foundation upon which a minimum of specific professional work is superimposed.

A peripheral responsibility of the department is to offer a one-hour orientation course designed to introduce the new student to the basic techniques of using a college library. This fall there were almost 300 students enrolled in this course. In anticipation of the predicted enrollment increases yet to come, the department is making a comprehensive study of a number of possible new formats for the course, using such techniques as programmed instruction, large lecture groups, and various newly developed visual aids.

Two other matters to which the department has been devoting a good deal of its attention are the feasibility of designing separate major programs for elementary and secondary school librarianship, and the desirability of expanding our program to include a graduate degree in librarianship. At the present time it appears likely that we will be able to develop the differentiated undergraduate program. The establishment of a graduate library school at the University of Iowa, which may be in operation within a year's time, makes it unlikely that our own program will expand very soon to include a graduate degree. However, our unique strength in the teacher-training field makes it incumbent upon us to watch carefully the development of a need for more highly trained personnel in the school libraries, and to strengthen our program in school librarianship to include a graduate degree whenever it appears that we have the opportunity to make a significantly larger contribution by means of this expansion.

A word about the physical facilities of the department is in order. The department occupies quarters on the lower level of the new library; the large well-equipped classroom is adjacent to a suite of individual faculty offices. A second smaller, seminar-type classroom also is adjacent, and is shared jointly with the library. Located just beyond is the Youth Collection—a collection of about 10,000 up-to-date, carefully selected volumes for the elementary and secondary school library, which is under the direction of a nationally recognized authority on children's books. If any academic department on the campus has anything approaching ideal quarters in which to carry out its program, the department of library science would have to lay claim to that good fortune.

During the past decade or two, libraries have become recognized increasingly as a major element in our entire educational structure, and the profession of librarianship is receiving the attention of more and more college students. Our task in the department of library science at State College of Iowa will continue to be that of attracting outstanding students to the specific field of school librarianship, and of giving them a sound foundation on which to build for the expanding opportunities in the years ahead.

Final Wins Encourage Football Team, Coach

All-conference tackle Merle Masonholder, a 245-pound giant from Columbus Junction, called the shot on State College of Iowa's whirlwind football finish a month before the season ended.

The Panthers, minus 10 offensive and defensive starters, were 0-5 just past the mid-season mark. They could have tossed in the towel.

Masonholder, dejected and sore after a 31-7 loss to Drake that brought the record to 0-5, had one remark, "We're going to finish with a 4-5 record."

The Panthers did finish 4-5, beating Morningside, Augustana, South Dakota State and South Dakota U. on successive Saturdays to take much of the sting out of the dismal start.

Masonholder, for example, was having one of his finest seasons. Randy Schultz and Loren Buser were never better and center Doug Korver was playing well.

Coach Sheriff was elated with the finish.

"This team could have thrown in the towel after those first five games," he said. "But, they didn't. I've had teams with more talent, but never a bunch that worked so hard to try to be a good football team as this one."

Sheriff loses a chunk of talent. Graduating will be co-captains Schultz, Buser, Del Hammond and Ken Beverlin (who missed the last seven games). Also lost will be Ted McPherson, Masonholder, Korver, Steve France, Les Koch, Ron Hartema, Tony Garcia, Jim Scallon, Bernie Stephenson, Duane Swanson and Bill Garner.

Schultz Ends SCI Career, Receives Pro Draft

Randy Schultz's football career at SCI is over but the honors keep piling in for him.

Randy Schultz

Randy became the first player in SCI history to be drafted by a professional football team when the World champion Cleveland Browns of the NFL picked him in the fifth round. He signed hours later.

One day later Randy racked up another first, becoming Iowa's first two-time Little All-American, being picked again by the Associated Press as its first team full-back.

Very possibly SCI's most celebrated grid star, Schultz set six records for rushing and tied another for touchdowns scored in a game (4).

In addition he was the first North Central Conference runner to win the rushing title three straight times, was named all-conference three times and was the league's most valuable player for the second straight season.

Here is a list of the records Randy owns at SCI:

Yards gained, game . . . 253 vs. So. Dak. St., 1963

Yards gained, season . . . 1,072 in 1964

Yards gained, career . . . 2,808, 1963-65

Times carried, game . . . 38 vs. No. Illinois, 1964

Times carried, season . . . 236 in 1964

Times carried, career . . . 588, 1963-65

Touchdowns, game . . . 4 vs. So. Dakota, 1965 (Ties record)

Statistical figures on Randy do not include one of his most spectacular performances, the 1964 Pecan Bowl game. Against Lamar Tech he carried 38 times for 160 yards and two touchdowns and earned the Outstanding Back award. NCAA rules prohibit counting post-season statistics on career or season records.

Homecoming Queen

Wrestling Coach Optimistic

Wrestling coach Chuck Patten is optimistic.

"Things just couldn't be as bad as they were last year," he said.

Everyone hopes not. Patten, in his first season as head coach, had struggled through an injury-plagued season that finished 2-8-1, the worst in SCI mat history.

Patten knew his team was better than the record. The trouble was he never had a full team. "We lost over 20 men due to injury and that included 16 of our topflight men."

The 1965-66 Panthers are not deep and injuries could hurt, but the picture is different. There is more fire there, generated by co-captains Jim Monroe and Rich Engel and the presence of a good sophomore group.

"We'll be exciting to watch," Patten said. "These kids like to wrestle. They'll go into a match wanting a piece of the action."

Cagers Face Busy Season

Much of the SCI basketball picture will be cleared up in a busy nine-game December schedule that tosses the Panthers against some of the finest Midwest teams.

Coach Norm Stewart, with seven lettermen on hand, faces a big task in getting his club ready. They play seven of the first nine games on the road or on a neutral court and tackle such powers as Southern Illinois (2nd in the NCAA College Division tournament in 1964), Iowa State, Northeast Missouri and North Dakota U. (3rd in College Division meet).

Veteran Craig Knepe, the 6-5 center with a chance to clip Pete Spoden's scoring record, is the headliner for Stewart. Knepe was the NCC's most valuable player a year ago, led the league in scoring and field goal percentages and earned honorable mention Little All-American ratings.

Two other starters are back in guard Jim Videtich and forward Phil Johnson. Chuck Nolting, a starter in 1963-64, is also back after missing last year with an injury. Other lettermen are Harry Daniels, Gene Fuelling and Lyle Schwarzenbach.

The schedule:

Dec. 1	* Mankato State
Dec. 4	* Southern Illinois
Dec. 11	NE Missouri
Dec. 13	Iowa State U.
Dec. 17	N. Dakota State
Dec. 18	North Dakota

Distance Runners Pull Upset

SCI's cross country team pulled one of the big upsets of the year in a dual meet, posted a good 5-3 dual meet record and finished second in the North Central Conference meet.

Coach Jack Jennett opened the season with three veterans and a feeling his Panthers were not physically prepared. They weren't. They dropped the opener before working themselves into shape.

They responded with better times as the year progressed and dumped heavily favored Luther in one of their finest performances of the year.

The Panthers were dethroned in the NCC title chase, finishing second to South Dakota State.

Top men all year for Jennett were his three lettermen: captain Bill Taylor, Ron Brinkert and Rich Engel. They were joined by Wayne Silka, Ron Bousman, George Rhinehart, Ron Toyne and Bob Ravn.

Jennett loses Taylor, Brinkert and Engel, but the rest will be back plus a fine freshman crop that won the NCC yearling title.

Dr. R. E. Matala Dies

Dr. Raymond E. Matala, 52, associate professor of industrial arts at SCI, died Aug. 7 at a hospital in Cook, Minn., where he had been since suffering a heart attack while vacationing there.

He received a bachelor of science degree and the master's degree from the University of Minnesota and a doctorate from the University of Oklahoma. He came to SCI in September, 1948.

Dr. Matala had taught in Virginia and Bemidji, Minn., and had served from 1942 to 1948 as a Navy communications officer. In 1948, he was communications coordinator for the Cedar Falls civil defense radio; and from 1955 to 1957, he was technical advisor to radio station KYTC at SCI. He had taught adult technical night classes in Waterloo for the past few years.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. George Nakari and Mrs. Walter Haryn, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Anne Matala, all of Cook, Minn., and several nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his wife, former SCI biology professor Dr. Dorothy Miller Matala, his parents and three brothers.

Dr. John W. Charles Dies; On SCI Staff for 32 Years

Dr. John W. Charles, 86, professor of education at SCI from 1917 to 1948, died Sept. 8, in North Kingston, R. I., where he had been living with his son, John Forrest.

Dr. Charles, a Kansan, came to SCI in 1916 as assistant professor of education after serving for 11 years as a teacher and administrator in Kansas secondary schools. He received a bachelor's degree from Friends University, the master's degree from Haverford College and a doctorate from the University of Iowa. He was the author of numerous articles in the field of education and psychology.

Dr. Charles was preceded in death by his wife, Mabel Munns Charles, and his daughter, Dorothy Charles, former editor of the Wilson and Co. International Index.

New SCI Prof Dies

Dr. Duane F. Blackwood, 41, associate professor of psychology at SCI, died of a heart attack Sept. 19 in Ames. He came to the campus this year from Curry College in Milton, Mass., where he had been associate professor and head of the department of psychology.

Born in Baltimore, Dr. Blackwood attended high school in Philadelphia. He was a graduate of the College of Wooster, Wooster, Ohio, and received the master of arts degree and the doctorate from Ohio State University.

He was, at one time, an instructor and assistant professor in psychology at Ohio State and associate professor and head of the department of psychology at Idaho State College.

The CAMPUS TODAY

Fall Enrollment Up

A total of 6,401 students are enrolled this fall at SCI.

The figure includes graduate and undergraduate students, both full and part-time. This is a 16 per cent increase over last fall's enrollment of 5,519.

There are 469 more women than men, with 3,435 women and 2,966 men. Of the women, 214 are graduate students and 3,221 are undergraduates. There are 323 male graduate students and 2,643 male undergraduates. This gives a total of 5,864 undergraduates and 537 graduate students.

A total of 2,080 students new on the SCI campus this fall includes 1,733 from high school and 347 transferring from other colleges.

The fall freshman enrollment is 2,533. Last fall there were 1,937 freshmen.

Other class enrollments are: sophomores, 1,290; juniors, 1,067; seniors, 959; and 15 unclassified.

Bartlett Hall 50 Years Old

Bartlett Hall for women, the oldest residence hall on the SCI campus, celebrated its 50th birthday anniversary Nov. 11, 12, 13 and 14.

The celebration began Thursday night, Nov. 11, with a birthday party featuring entertainment typical of different eras in the hall's history—from the Charleston to a modern dance band and a graceful hula by Bartlett residents from Hawaii.

Bartlett residents dined together Sunday, Nov. 14, at a special birthday banquet. Dr. Mavis Holmes, associate dean of students, addressed the group.

Bartlett Hall, which now houses 678 girls, was first occupied in 1915 by 122 girls.

It was named for Moses Bartlett, professor of languages and literature at the college for 28 years and a member of the first Iowa State Normal School faculty.

Local AXE's Go National

Alpha Chi Epsilon (AXE), a local social fraternity for men at SCI, became the fourth nationally affiliated fraternity at SCI when the 60-member group was formally installed this fall as a Sigma Alpha Epsilon (SAE) chapter.

The AXE's were notified of acceptance of their petition to join the national fraternity at the organization's national convention in June at Atlanta, Ga.

Their new affiliation climaxes two years of preparation for the convention bid, said Larry Mikesell of Knoxville, AXE president when the group voted to petition SAE in 1963. The change of name occurred in November to coincide with the 50th anniversary celebration of the founding of AXE at SCI.

SCI Dean of Students Edward Voldseth said that the college was pleased to learn that the SAE fraternity convention had approved the AXE petition for an SAE charter.

"The fraternity partially fulfilled requirements for establishing a chapter on the SCI campus by its relatively recent action giving its local chapters complete autonomy in the selection of members without regard to race, color, creed or national origin," Dean Voldseth said.

Other national fraternity chapters at SCI are Phi Sigma Epsilon, Sigma Tau Gamma and Tau Kappa Epsilon. Psi Omega, established during the 1964-65 academic year, is the only remaining local fraternity.

SCI Joins New Association

SCI has joined 11 Midwestern universities in the formation of a new organization for the promotion of graduate and undergraduate education in science and mathematics called the Central States Universities, Inc.

Dr. Clifford McCollum, head of the SCI science department, is a member of the initial board of directors, and the SCI representative on the corporation's council is Dr. William C. Lang, dean of instruction at SCI. CSU will encourage cooperative programs with the Argonne National Laboratories and similar organizations.

Grants Return From Iran

Dr. and Mrs. Martin L. Grant returned to the SCI campus this fall after spending the past two years in Iran.

Dr. Grant, professor of biology at SCI and a member of the faculty since 1936, was a Fulbright lecturer in botany at Pahlavi University in Shiraz, Iran.

While in Iran, the Grants collected more than 2,000 varieties of native plants. Dr. Grant feels confident that some of his finds have never been classified.

During the two years they were away from SCI, the Grants traveled about 10,000 miles by air, 10,000 more miles by car, more than a thousand miles on foot, and lesser distances by donkey, motorcycle and raft.

Dr. Talbott to Thailand

Dr. Nathan M. Talbott, associate professor of political science and Far Eastern studies at SCI, assumed his duties as visiting lecturer in Far Eastern studies at Chulalongkorn University in Bangkok, Thailand, in September.

Dr. Talbott's project is sponsored by The Asia Foundation of San Francisco. He plans to spend two years in Thailand before returning to SCI.

Dr. Talbott's responsibilities will be to lecture on social science subjects with a Far Eastern specialization and to advise on the establishment and operation of an Asian studies program and an Institute of International Affairs at Chulalongkorn University.

College High Principal Named

James E. Albrecht, B.A. '51, M.A. '56, Ed.S. '64, joined the SCI faculty this fall as secondary principal at the Malcolm Price Laboratory School and assistant professor in the department of teaching.

Albrecht came to SCI from Dike where he had served as principal of the secondary school since 1954.

In 1951, Albrecht married Myrtle Lee Moar, B.A. '51. The Albrechts have four children, Mark Edwin 13, Kimberly Jean 7, Diane Louise 5, and Laura Lee 1.

Mrs. Doris Berry Hauser, pictured above with Helen Gurtiza Takanishi, B.A. '58, retired Oct. 8, 1965, after serving as secretary in the Alumni Office for 22 years. Helen assisted in the Alumni Office while in college and is one of many Hawaiian students who regard Mrs. Hauser as a special friend. Mrs. Hauser will continue to reside at 421 West 18 St., Cedar Falls.

College Gets Shell Collection

The State College of Iowa Museum recently acquired a large, well-documented collection of sea, land and fresh-water shells, sponges, crabs, starfish, sea urchins, corals, sea fans, sea plumes, and unique forms of driftwood.

The collection, containing 27,000 specimens from every continent, was made by Mrs. Hazel Bengston of Littleton.

SCI Hosts Art Camp

Eighty-three high schoolers from 52 Iowa communities and three Minnesota towns studied painting, ceramics, print-making, crafts and jewelry during morning sessions of the first annual SCI Summer College Institute Art Camp Aug. 8 through Aug. 15.

In the afternoons, they heard art lecturers, participated in work sessions and went on field trips. Evening entertainment included movies, a dance, a stunt night and a watermelon party that featured "hootenanny" folk singers.

Staff members of the institute were Dr. Harry Guillaume, head of the SCI art department; Kenneth Gogel, assistant professor of art; and instructors Mrs. Joan Stein, Richard Leet, Ray George and Ed Harris.
